Project Overview

The CoolAir concept uses a white and warm orange visual system to communicate energy, comfort, and responsiveness. The page architecture combines a clear heating and cooling promise with service discovery, online scheduling, a special offer, benefits, reviews, and service-area coverage.

01	Clear Value Proposition The hero leads with heating and cooling expertise and a direct comfort-focused promise.
02	Online Scheduling A dedicated scheduling bar places service, date and time selection immediately beneath the hero.
03	Service Discovery AC Repair, Heating Repair, AC Installation, Heating Installation, Maintenance, and Duct Cleaning are organized into scannable cards.
04	Offer & Trust A $59 AC Tune-Up offer, fast response, upfront pricing, certified technicians, satisfaction guarantee, rating, and experience create multiple conversion signals.

Conversion-Focused Structure

1	Hero	Heating & cooling promise + Call Now + Book Online
2	Booking	HVAC service, date and time selection
3	Services	Six core HVAC services with a View All Services path
4	Offer	$59 AC Tune-Up special offer and claim CTA
5	Proof	Customer count, Google rating, experience and service-area coverage

Design & Conversion Notes

The concept uses a focused visual system and service-business conversion architecture. The exact treatment differs by industry, while the underlying goal remains the same: make the service proposition clear, reduce friction to contact, and establish credibility.

Visual hierarchy

Warm orange accents distinguish the HVAC brand while keeping the interface clean and approachable.

CTA strategy

Call and booking actions appear in the hero and header, while the scheduling bar creates another direct conversion point.

Service clarity

The six-card service grid quickly communicates the breadth of HVAC installation, repair and maintenance capabilities.

Offer strategy

The visible $59 AC Tune-Up offer gives the concept a concrete promotional conversion path.

Local relevance

Service-area messaging communicates coverage across Miami-Dade, Broward and Palm Beach Counties.
